BOX OFFICE REPORT

What a difference a day makes...

Thursday night previews looked promising for a record setting weekend for Solo: A Star Wars Story. The film had a record-setting $14.1 million opening night over the previous record holder of $13.2 million set by Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End.

Then came Friday's results...

Solo ended up with a total of only an estimated $35.6 million. That includes the Thursday night previews. This means that the anticipated weekend range for the film will fall well below expectations. The film is looking at a three-day weekend of around $93 to $95 million, and a four-day holiday performance of $108 to $115 million.

When we compare Solo to the other Disney-led Star Wars releases, the result is not good. Star Wars: The Force Awakens had a first day total of $119 million. Star Wars: The Last Jedi had a first day total of $104 million. Star Wars: Rogue One earned $71 million. Solo had a first day tally only half that of Rogue One.

The Friday box office estimates also show, however, that the competition experienced a downturn as well. Deadpool 2 dropped more than expected, pulling in $12.1 million on Friday. The picture is likely to make an estimate $43 million three-day haul, which is a 65% drop from opening weekend.

Friday's estimates from Box Office Mojo:

1. Solo: A Star Wars Story: $35.6M. Total Gross: $35.6M
2. Deadpool 2: $12.1M. Total Gross: $176M
3. Avengers: Infinity War: $4.2M. Total Gross: $609M
4. Book Club: $2.7M. Total Gross: $25M
5. Life of the Party: $1.3M. Total Gross: $35.3M

Ed. Note: All five of the top movies of 2018 so far are either science fiction or horror:

1. Black Panther
2. Avengers: Infinity War
3. A Quiet Place
4. Deadpool 2
5. Ready Player One

SPORTS REPORT

The Baltimore Orioles started the holiday weekend on the right base by beating Tampa Bay Rays. Saturday, however, Tampa Bay beat the O's 5-1. The Orioles still have the worse record in baseball, tied with the Kansas City Royals at 17-35.

The Washington Nationals are doing better. The Nats have now won two in a row, beating the Miami Marlins 4-1. The Nats are now in front of the New York Mets with a 28-22 record.

The NBA playoffs continue their exciting runs. Both the Eastern and Western conferences have been forced into seven game series. Tonight, the Boston Celtics have a chance to upset the Cleveland Cavaliers by winning at home in Boston to advance to the finals. Game time is 8:30pm.

Monday, the Houston Rockets will be facing the Golden State Warriors in Houston at 9pm.
